EINPresswire.com/ -- Chuseok or Korean Thanksgiving is a time for celebration with family and friends. This Korean harvest festival takes place during mid-August every year. It is the day when the families thank their forefathers for the abundant harvest. The traditional celebration involves the charye ceremony, where everyone enjoys Chuseok food prepared from freshly harvested fruits and rice.

This year Korean Thanksgiving will occur on September 21, 2021. Usually, Koreans visit their ancestral homes during this harvest festival. This year everyone is looking forward to a splendid celebration as the pandemic has eased a bit. However, with travel restrictions and other factors traveling might still seem impossible. In such situations, gifting has become an essential factor. Since people still cannot be with their loved ones like in early times, they look for meaningful gifts to send home.
