CBW knows that journalism serves a vital role in the crypto space. They are well-positioned to report on the issues that impact crypto communities. With the change in demands for excellent reporting in an increasingly digital world, the CBW app will provide the most exciting local and international news.

Information is necessary for today's age to stay updated and to be ahead of others. To keep informed, fact-based journalism, which impacts individuals and communities, matters the most, especially when fake news has become more prevalent.

CBW app aims to develop a different platform that will bring new experiences in the way viewers explore the news content. The app is easy to use and focuses on a limited set of unique features with a user-friendly interface.

The content will be available to read offline, and readers can share, like, bookmark, and listen to the articles. Readers will also be able to personalize the app to suit their preferences. The app is available for download on Android smartphones and tablets. CBW Mobile app for iOS devices will be released soon.

The app is available for free globally on the Google Play store.
