

Entre Releases New Mobile App

Entrepreneurs, creators, freelancers and investors can now connect with each other on any device, from anywhere in the world.

PITTSBURGH, PA, US, September 23, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Entre, deemed "the new professional network" has officially released a mobile version of its app. They are focused on being the home for the next generation of workers by connecting and supporting all types of entrepreneurs, creators, investors, and freelancers.

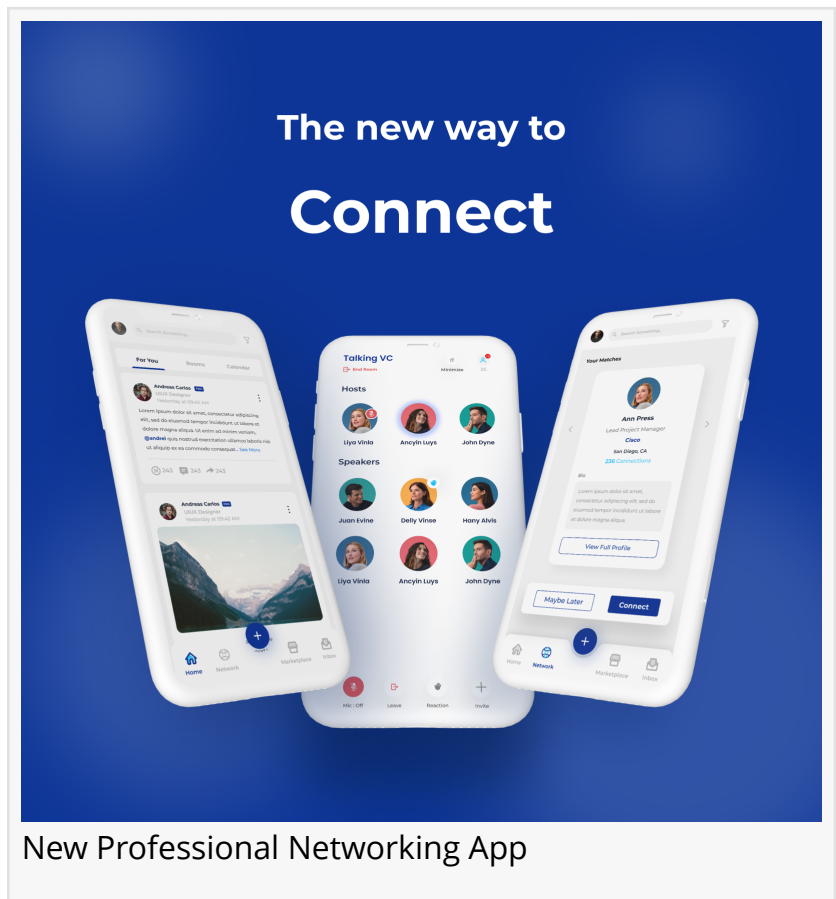

This is the latest innovation from the startup Entre and is starting to emerge as the new alternative to LinkedIn for individuals looking for more entrepreneurial and flexible work.

Entre is quickly becoming a big player in the future of work and the creator economy with over 12,000 registered users from over 150 different countries and growing over 90% month over month.

The mobile app will now enable entrepreneurs to easily connect with each other whenever and wherever they are. This means that users will be able to create content, host and attend events, schedule meetings, and chat in private one-on-one conversations or make use of group chats for discussing business opportunities or collaborating on projects. With this feature it becomes possible for them not only to make connections but also continue working on the go.

This new app is available for free and across all iOS and Android devices.

Users will be able to enjoy a seamless online experience across all access points, whether through browsers or via smartphone apps. In addition, when meeting with other individuals in real life they can easily follow up with each other with Entre's messenger or meeting feature.

New Professional Networking App

"Entre's mission is simple: Build the largest and most accessible network for entrepreneurs," said Michael Marra, the CEO and Founder.

Entre is focused on helping businesses succeed in today's expanding economy through networking, collaboration and integration across its network.

"We believe that context is just as important, if not more so, than content itself. The entrepreneurial process requires an exponential amount of information to be effectively accessed, consumed and acted upon," said Marra. "With community building at its core, Entre is uniquely positioned to become the one tool everyone uses for business in the future."

The launch of the new mobile app has further strengthened that vision by making an always-connected experience for entrepreneurs.
