

IADA to Arrive at 2021 NBAA-BACE in Force

Strong Presence Reflects Confidence in Used Bizjet Marketplace

LAS VEGAS, NEVADA, US, September 27, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Making a strong statement that the used business jet market is back, the International Aircraft Dealers Association (IADA) is exhibiting for the first time at the 2021 NBAA Business Aviation Convention & Exhibition to be held here next month.

Altogether, more than 80 IADA members, including dealers, OEMs, and products and services providers, will be involved in the activities of NBAA-BACE this year. Featuring a new 30' by 40' exhibit, specially designed for client meetings in private rooms for members, IADA Booth # 3564 is strategically located near the Honda Aircraft booth and NBAA events.

Contributing to the large IADA presence, 15 IADA accredited dealers and 34 verified products and services companies will have their own exhibits at NBAA-BACE, scheduled Oct. 12-14 at the Las Vegas Convention Center.

"In our 30th anniversary year, this robust presence clearly reflects pent up enthusiasm as we are all eager to return to the used aircraft transaction business," said Executive Director Wayne Starling. "Our members and IADA board of directors are clearly saying that the used aircraft marketplace has rebounded from the pandemic induced trough and we are ready to get back into the swing of things at NBAA-BACE in 2021."

In addition to IADA members with their own company exhibits, participating members focusing their NBAA involvement at IADA's inaugural NBAA booth include an impressive lineup of 19
