EINPresswire.com/ -- The production of corn or maize plays an important role in the global economy. Corn is used in raw and processed form in the feed and food industry globally. Cornmeal is a major byproduct of corn. It is powder form of corn made by drying process. It is commonly used as staple food in many regions. Cornmeal has high fiber content in dietary meals and provides healthy food nutrients. It also has essential source of minerals such as manganese, copper, zinc, phosphorus, magnesium, and iron.

Cornmeal serves wide application in dairy and confectionary products such as muffins, pancakes, puddings, bread, desserts, porridge, and waffles & rolls. Beside the food industry, organic cornmeal is being extensively used in horticultural industry, as well, in the recent years. Using cornmeal in horticultural gardens is the effective way to keep weed seeds from outgrowing and avoid damaging the existing plant system, trees, or shrubs.
