Our peer coaching platform enables veterans to build trusted connections that will help them upskill and reskill, and ultimately ease them into the workforce. In a pay-it-forward manner, they can in turn coach new veterans as they start civilian careers. Furthermore, this provides an excellent opportunity for companies to identify and attract talent when they're actively seeking employment, making it a win-win for everyone involved."

"Both Veterans Ascend and Numly™ are all about engaging connections," says Veterans ASCEND CEO Robyn Grable. "Connections to great careers for our military veterans by focusing on skills. Highlighting those skills through our AI-powered talent sourcing technology and intentional hiring process. Learning to promote those skills through the development content and peer coaching in Numly's™ proprietary platform gives our military veterans an edge to end underemployment and decrease turnover in their first-year post-military career."
