Miguel Canales, MD

<https://siliconvalleyhairinstitute.com/>, is proud to announce an update to its FUE transplant page. The Follicular Unit Extraction process for patients can be explored online and potential clients can reach out for a consultation.

explained Miguel Canales, MD. “That is why we decided to help provide a few answers, so that people know what to expect about a follicular unit extraction procedure.”

The Bay Area community can review the newly updated FUE transplant page for Silicon Valley Institute at <https://siliconvalleyhairinstitute.com/fue-hair-transplant/>. The patient process for Follicular Unit Extraction is updated on the updated page. San Francisco residents can learn about robotic hair transplantation surgery and the hair loss mitigation process. Bay Area women and men can reach out to Dr. Miguel Canales to discuss hair loss surgery options. Dr. Canales executes advanced FUE/FUT surgery and the ARTAS robot for the precise extraction and transplantation of hair follicles. Interested persons can review the ARTAS page, a 'branded' term for robotic hair loss surgery at <https://siliconvalleyhairinstitute.com/artas/>. The clinic is based in Foster City and serves the entire San Francisco Bay Area, including San Jose, Sunnyvale, Mountain View, Palo Alto, and Fremont, California. Persons interested in skin care options can visit the sister website at <https://svaestheticderm.com/>.

RESIDENTS LEARN ABOUT FUE TRANSPLANT OPTIONS IN THE BAY AREA

Here is the background on this release. Bay Area residents ready to consider hair transplant surgery might have questions about the process. The first concern could be trying to fit robotic FUE transplant surgery into a packed schedule. Managing daily obligations such as work, family, and after-hours events can leave little time for another task. Scheduling FUE transplant surgery in the Bay Area may be easier than expected. An update page informing Silicon Valley residents about the commitment required for hair restoration surgery could be helpful. The new online information, coupled with one-on-one hair loss consultations in Palo Alto, Foster City, or online, can be a helpful first step towards recovery from hair loss.
