

Imagining the 8 Planets in Our Solar System

ATLANTA , GA, USA, October 5, 2021

/EINPresswire.com/ -- Many of us grew up with an understanding that Pluto was one of the planets in our Solar System. Well, this is news for some of us, but now Pluto is classified as a dwarf planet after planetary scientists found an icy object further from the Sun than Pluto.

Statistics show many parents want to enjoy the books they read to their children and the illustration from this solar system book alone makes this an excellent read!

New children's book that discusses the solar system and includes a 5 question quiz at the conclusion is, "Champion and Dominion Explore the Galaxy" by Clyde Publishers.

During our brief stay on planet Earth, we owe ourselves and our descendants the opportunity to explore — in part because it's fun to do.”

Neil DeGrasse Tyson

Inspired by Richard Branson and the Inspiration4 Team's recent trip into outer space the goal for this book is to peak interest in younger readers about the planets in the Galaxy in a Dr. Seuss like format.

This book is meant to help parents and children visualize what outer space may actually be like while learning about planetary scientists and why Pluto is now considered a dwarf planet.

Loving brothers, Champion and Dominion allow their imagination to take them to new heights as they explore outer space aboard their ClydeX Spaceship.

For the curious observer as well as the student of planetary science, this book will be an essential library acquisition. Readers young and old will have a better understanding of the whole concept of space and help them explore the galaxy in a new and fun way.
