Arts has received a $50,000 grant from L. Knife and Son, Inc., a division of The Sheehan Family Companies. The award will be used to construct a new catering kitchen that will enable the art center to expand its operations through rental of its beautiful gallery and meeting spaces for a range of public and private catered events.

“The arts are essential for creating a healthy community, and this has never been more evident than during this past year,” said J.C. Panio, General Manager of L. Knife and Son, Inc. “We are pleased to support Plymouth Center for the Arts in its commitment to preserve, enhance and find new ways for our community to access and utilize its historically significant property.”

“Plymouth Center for the Arts is honored and grateful for this tremendous support from L. Knife and Son and The Sheehan Family Companies,” said Peg Page, president of the board of directors for Plymouth Center for the Arts. “This award will position us to continue our momentum, expand our programming, and adapt our operations in ways that engage even more people in the arts, increasing the value the arts bring to the local economy and to the quality of life in our community.”

L. Knife and Son, Inc. supports a range of environmental conservation and early childhood education focused organizations and initiatives in their local communities.

The award from L. Knife and Son, Inc. has been made in honor of Elaine Crawley, the late sister of Maureen Sheehan and sister-in-law of The Sheehan Family Companies Chairman Gerald Sheehan. Crawley was among a group of local artists who co-founded the Plymouth Guild (now known as Plymouth Center for the Arts) more than 50 years ago. She and her peers produced the original Plymouth Outdoor Art Show in Plymouth's Brewster Gardens, now celebrating its 54th year as Plymouth Center for the Arts' Annual Juried Art Show.
