The naloxone spray market consists of sales of naloxone spray by entities (organizations, sole traders, and partnerships) – the product is prefilled with naloxone, and a needle-free device is sprayed into one nostril, and it requires no assembly. It is used for treating opioid emergencies with symptoms such as problems with breathing and severe sleepiness or inability to respond. Naloxone is a non-scheduled prescription drug which belongs to the class of medications called opiate antagonists, and is used to reverse or prevent the effects of opioid narcotic overdose for drugs such as codeine, fentanyl, morphine, and oxycodone. Naloxone comes as a solution (liquid) to spray into the nose and each naloxone nasal spray contains a single dose of naloxone and should be used only once.

Trends In The Global Naloxone Spray Market

The increase in product approvals is shaping the naloxone spray market. Major companies manufacturing naloxone sprays are focused on new product approvals to broaden their product portfolios and expand their naloxone spray business. For instance, in April 2021, the US Food and Drug Administration (FDA) approved Hikma Pharmaceuticals KLOXXADOTM (naloxone hydrochloride) nasal spray 8 mg for the immediate treatment of recognized or suspected opioid overdose, as manifested by respiratory and/or central nervous system depression, in adult and pediatric patients. KLOXXADOTM provides an important new treatment to address the opioid epidemic and contains twice as much naloxone per spray as Narcan Nasal Spray 4mg in a ready-to-use nasal spray to reverse the effects of opioid overdose.
