

Hand-Pressed Hemp Oil: Synchronicity Wellness

BOULDER, CO, USA, October 6, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Hemp oil may seem like a newer trend, but Boulder-based Synchronicity has been in the business for over two decades now. With products 100% grown and hand-processed right here in Colorado, the company is committed to keeping it local — and sharing the profound benefits of Full-Spectrum Hemp Oil.

Twenty years in the making, Synchronicity has worked to perfect the only hand-pressed Hemp Oil on the market. The oil comes straight from patent-pending, gold-standard plants grown along the banks of Colorado's Arkansas River.

A gentle hand-press process translates to superior quality. "We are proud to provide the most nutrient-dense Full-Spectrum Hemp Oil available to help people achieve more balance than what just CBD alone can provide," says Synchronicity CEO Andrew Campbell. "We've set the standard for the highest-quality Full-Spectrum Hemp Oil products you can find anywhere."

Relentless innovation

Synchronicity knows the proof is in the feedback they get from real people every day: faster recovery, a better night's sleep and less stress.

One person killed in single-vehicle crash in Longmont "We're constantly researching and innovating to improve every step of our process," says Campbell. "We have poured our heart and soul into our patented plant genetics, hand-press, and patented infusion processes, so you can truly feel the full effect your body and mind deserves.”

Their hard work has paid off.

The proof comes in one bold achievement: the most third-party certifications in the industry. “We’re proud of our unparalleled list of certifications,” Campbell says. “Synchronicity was founded with a compliance-first approach and remains committed to setting standards and producing the highest quality hemp products for both people and retail partners.”

NextGen wellness pioneers
With innovation as a constant motivator, Synchronicity recently partnered with The University of Colorado Athletics to continue growing the future of Colorado — the next generation of natural wellness pioneers. “Synchronicity and CU share a natural and soulful connection with a mission for better health and wellness,” says Campbell.

CU Athletics’ WHOLE (Wellness Health Optimal Life Experience) student-athlete approach aims to support and develop student-athletes in the areas of academics, sports nutrition, athletic training, medical services, mental health, and leadership and career development. Synchronicity’s innovative products help support that mission.

“Our partnership helps ensure that CU Athletics can continue to provide a holistic, world-class experience for student-athletes in all sports,” Campbell says. “As a Colorado-based company on a mission to advance wellness, we’re thrilled to partner with CU Athletics. Teaming up with an organization that shares our values and passion for innovation and leadership is of utmost importance to us.”

CBD vs. Hemp?

One of Synchronicity’s key education points is explaining the difference between CBD and hemp.

Hemp oil may seem like a newer trend, but Boulder-based Synchronicity has been in the business for over two decades now.

A wide range of both topical and ingestible products — including a helpful trial kit option — provide different ways for consumers to explore what delivery method works best for their body.

It can be confusing.

But Campbell says it's simple science: "A hemp plant is loaded with dozens and dozens of cannabinoids, terpenes, bioflavonoids, omegas, nutrients and minerals that work together to deliver the full benefits of pain relief, muscle recovery, better sleep, anxiety relief and more."

Synchronicity has coined this the True Entourage Effect™: giving the body the power of the whole plant — exactly as nature intended. "CBD is just one compound that has been isolated and extracted from the hemp plant, away from all its sister elements," says Campbell. "This diminishes the full and natural power of the plant. As the saying goes, 'The whole is greater than the sum of its parts.'"

In-demand categories: pain, sleep, stress, skincare

With the whole plant creating the True Entourage Effect™, it follows that Hemp Oil may have broad applications. "Since Full-Spectrum Hemp Oil directly interacts with and helps balance the body's complex and far-reaching endocannabinoid system, the reasons why people choose to take Hemp Oil are seemingly endless," Campbell says. "Simply put our plants support the body to reduce inflammation and balance this system, which is why there are so many varied benefits to this plant."

There are many reasons that people turn to Synchronicity products, but the most in-demand right now are relief for pain, sleep, stress and skincare issues. "Our product line is crafted to fit individual needs and active lifestyle 24 hours a day," Campbell explains.

A wide range of both topical and ingestible products — including a helpful trial kit option — provide different ways for consumers to explore what delivery method works best for their body. That's important, says Campbell, "because Hemp Oil is definitely not a one-size-fits-all product."

Synchronicity is constantly educating and informing about how to best personalize their hemp products by sharing the work of Synchronicity President Dr. Steven Kraus, who has been successfully treating patients in his own practice for over three decades. Consumers can find scientific and educational articles on the Synchronicity blog.

"Our goal is to better inform everyone on the proper dosage, products, methods and history surrounding hemp," Dr. Kraus says. "And since every human body is different, our approach is simple: We ask our consumers the right questions, listen to their needs, and make suggestions based upon our extensive experience and expertise."

In fact, the company offers complimentary 30-minute consultations with hemp experts, which can be scheduled directly through the website.

What's next?

So where does a company that's already leading its category go from here? Deeper.

“Our goal is to educate and empower every single person that crosses our path with knowledge and awareness of the life-changing benefits of hand-pressed, Full-Spectrum Hemp Oil and its ability to balance the mind and body.”

It's all part of a larger movement giving people an opportunity to heal themselves naturally versus using chemicals and pharmaceuticals, Campbell explains. “We hope to provide support and guide people away from harmful chemicals — and back into a healthy relationship with nature.”
