Further key findings from the report suggest:

Permanent labels use strong adhesion, which creates a permanent bond between the surface and the label. The permanence of adhesion depends on the face material, environment, surface application, and time. The adhesion used in the label should consider the cold, resistance to heat, moisture, solvents, and chemicals. When peeled, this label leaves a residue.

Digital Printing technology offers impressive quality and consistency over other options. The colors also show up perfectly over harsh lines, and the quality of the last printed material is as same as the first one. The segment held the largest market share of 3.5% in the year 2019.

Food and Beverage industry dominated with a market share of 4.7% in the year 2019. In this industry, the packaging is done to provide ingredient information, product identification, and cautionary and warning notifications. The self-adhesive label manufacturers offer label products that can be applied to various substances, and with the growth of the retail sector, the sale of the extensive product category is also increasing.

An increase in per capita income in emerging nations of the Asia Pacific region has increased the purchasing power of the consumers in recent times. Consumer awareness regarding the product's detailed description of self-adhesive labels is fueling the market in the forecast period.
