

Buffalo Author, Gary Friedman Releases Fourth Book

Self-published author Gary Friedman weaves a riveting tale that offers a bird's eye view into the complexity of humanity and love

BUFFALO, NEW YORK, USA, October 10, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Gary Friedman, Buffalo-native and self-published author has released his fourth book that compliments The Shepherd Chronicles. Like his main character David, Gary has always sought to lift up those around him and touch their lives in a positive way. From his early school years through college and his lifelong career of helping others, Gary put into practice his desire to help and uplift those he interacts with.

Inspired by author Mitch Albom, he aims to inspire a large number of people through writing – keeping promises, staying true to our promises and being the agents of change.

Stones & Glass Houses shows the intersection where truth collides with deception takes place in a hospital in Stones and Glass Houses. After 30 years of loneliness and excuses, two families are set free by the piercing alarm on a flat line monitor. As the trail of deceit unravels, five lines change forever because of the arrogance and weakness of a man who claimed to love them.

“Early on I realized that lifting people up is my goal as a writer,” says Friedman.

“Make sure you have a clear schedule when you start this novel; it keeps you turning the pages and surprises you at the end that you won’t see coming! Written in a style similar to Liane Moriarty; a must read,” says Althea E Luehrsen, CEO Leadership Buffalo, Inc. and avid reader.

Bringing his hometown and surrounding areas to life, Gary’s books take place in the towns of Amherst, Orchard Park, Delaware Park, and Downtown Buffalo.
