This achievement takes KPI Ninja’s mission of supporting health care to a whole new level. Not only do KPI Ninja clients have reduced fees and a faster onboarding process to exchange data within eHealth Exchange, but they also get the opportunity to query the network for missing health information about a patient to complete the medical chart, calculate quality measures, and run advanced analytics.

Becoming an eHealth Exchange Validated product reinforces our commitment to our clients as they look to improve outcomes with technology & analytics built on the most comprehensive health information.”

Naren Parimi, CTO, KPI Ninja

Ninja Universe, with a first-of-its-kind Community Health Record solution and more than 20 applications, meets all the diverse data needs from a single platform for the most user-friendly experience. This is yet another benefit piled onto the product’s impressive recognitions including holding NCQA’s eCQM Certification, Measure Certification for HEDIS® Health Plan 2020, Patient-Centered Medical

Home and Patient-Centered Specialty Practice Prevalidations, ONC Health IT Certification, and being an Amazon Web Service Select Partner.

“Providers and teams in every health care setting are focused on value-based care and how the seamless exchange of patient information can be the enabler of better outcomes and contract success” said Naren Parimi, KPI Ninja’s Chief Technology Officer. “Becoming an eHealth Exchange Validated product expands upon and reinforces our commitment to support our clients as they look to improve outcomes with technology and analytics built on the most comprehensive, up-to-date health information.”

KPI Ninja was founded on data-centered ethos with the belief that the widespread use of health data – in the form of technology, data management tools and analytics – will be the catalyst to more affordable, high-quality health care. Ninja Universe is the manifestation of this mission with innovative technology solutions that empower providers and teams to provide better health care.
