First Global Checkpoint: Hong Kong

Founder of UMEGO, Loréna Marchelina, said, "Born and raised in the south of Spain, I then relocated to Estonia. I decided to study in Shenzhen in 2018, where I noticed it was difficult to meet new friends, maintain meaningful relationships, or explore the city. I believe technology can break the ice; if not, tie the knots between people. UMEGO is the brainchild for myself and all mobile phone users' tomorrow."

Most of the approximately two million single HongKongers aspire to develop long-term friendships and committed relationships with social networking tools. That is why Loréna and Timo, founders of UMEGO, have named Hong Kong as their first checkpoint of its global footprint. "I really hope that every single HongKongers can pave a new way to connect with others and meet their soulmates," Loréna said further.
