As with all other real estate purchases, the process involves the use of a title insurance company to facilitate the deal in the usual way with the normal safeguards and protections.

Today's announcement represents another significant step towards the mass adoption of cryptocurrency for all types and values of payments in a fully compliant environment”

Josh Tate

To use crypto to buy real estate the purchaser simply scans the QR code presented by the title company. This can be online via an email payment link or in person via a payment terminal. The crypto is instantly converted into fiat at the best available conversion rate for deposit with the title company which then executes the transaction in the traditional way.

Josh Tate, CEO and co-founder of ForumPay said, “It is exciting to work with Coastal Properties to deliver real estate purchases across the USA for the 250 million plus global crypto consumer base. Today's announcement represents another significant step towards the mass adoption of cryptocurrency for all types and values of payments in a fully compliant environment.”

Joe Bettag, owner and Broker of Coastal Properties said, "We are delighted to be working with ForumPay and its unique technology to facilitate real estate purchases with crypto. We firmly believe blockchain technology offers an exciting future in a safe and proven process today in Florida and every other part of the United States. Due to our partnership with ForumPay, crypto holders will be able to diversify their crypto investments directly into real estate with our simple, secure and risk-free payment process."
