The book contains the inspiring real-life story of Michael Dillard and the secret formula that he used to go from unemployed on a Friday to traveling around the world as a Foreign Service Officer on a Monday.

Michael Dillard was born in Portsmouth, Virginia, and raised in Clarksville, Tennessee. From age 7, he grew up in a low-income single-parent household. The U.S. federal program called Upward Bound, hosted by Austin Peay State University, motivated him to develop a vision for his life.

Upward Bound provided Michael with Math and English tutoring in addition to providing him with cultural exposure. Afterward, Michael's motto was, "If they can do it, I can do it" attitude. This unique event changed the trajectory of Michael's life.

After trying to work 45 hours a week and go to college full time, Michael left college. He went on to serve four years in the U.S Army as a Radio Repairer so that he could receive financial assistance with his college studies. His duty stations included Ft. Carson, Colorado, Camp Casey, South Korea, and Ft. Stewart, Georgia.

After completing four years in the U.S. Army, Michael received his Bachelor's Degree from Middle Tennessee State University, his MBA with a specialization in Financial Planning from Strayer University, and a Master's Degree in Accounting from Liberty University.
