

Revenue Management Market | One the most booming industry in upcoming years due to global demand

Growth in distribution of ancillaries through e-travel platforms boosts the market growth

PORTLAND, PORTLAND, OR , UNITED STATES, October 14, 2021

/EINPresswire.com/ -- The rising need for competitive pricing strategies, penetration of mobile devices worldwide, high growth in subscriber base in various regions, and digital transformation to compel Communication Service Providers (CSPs) for integrating revenue management throughout modern systems.

Revenue Management Market

The global revenue management market is segmented based on solution, service, application, and geography. Based on the solution, it is divided into risk management, pricing & revenue forecast management, revenue analytics, data management, and channel revenue management. Based on service, it is bifurcated into professional services and managed services. On the basis of application, it is categorized into aviation, real estate & construction, media & entertainment, telecommunication, transportation & logistics, energy & utilities, retail & wholesale, manufacturing, and tourism & hospitality. Geographically, it is analyzed across North America, Europe, Asia-Pacific, and LAMEA

However, the inability to cope up with the evolving market, and cross-platform applications hamper the revenue management market growth. Conversely, an increase in demand for revenue & channel management and upgrading the existing legacy system are expected to propel the market growth.
