

Water Damage Dry Out Would Be Impossible Without These Four Trusted Pieces of Equipment.

Quality equipment is safer and allows technicians to work more efficiently. More efficiency equals less stress and happier customers.

PHOENIX, AZ, USA, October 29, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Below are the pieces of equipment that are used to properly dry out structures that have been affected by water damage:

1. Moisture Meters and Thermal Imaging: A moisture meter determines where moisture is hiding and allows water damage technicians to come up with a drying strategy. A thermal imaging camera can detect temperature differences and patterns that will show if water is hiding in walls, ceilings, and floors. This is a less destructive means of finding moisture in residential or commercial structures.

2. Dehumidifier: A dehumidifier separates the excess moisture from the air through a condensation process and does not circulate it. It will then supply warm, dry air back into the room. There are also different sized units based on the size of the damage.

3. Air Movers: Unlike a regular fan, air movers are designed to be low to the ground and blow focused air at high speeds which forces water to evaporate quickly from walls, carpeting, tile, and or wood floors.

4. Air Scrubbers: This piece of equipment removes odors, particles, and pollution from the air. Air scrubbers also make sure that no microbial growth starts to develop after water damage has
