

BYJU'S FutureSchool Announces Upcoming ESPORTS LAB, 6th Edition of the CreatorSpace Learning Series

A free virtual event, CreatorSpace: ESPORTS LAB will connect kids of all ages with leading gamers experts from across the global esports industry.

SAN FRANCISCO, CA, USA, October 15, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ -- BYJU'S FutureSchool, the leader in interactive, one-on-one online learning, has recently announced the upcoming CreatorSpace: ESPORTS LAB, the 6th free virtual event in the CreatorSpace learning series. As event host, BYJU'S FutureSchool looks to connect kids with some of the top names in the esports industry, as well as to inspire and educate young people on the exciting career opportunities within this rapidly growing field.

Open to participants around the world, ESPORTS LAB will feature some of the top gamers and experts in the esports industry, including EDGE Consulting Cofounders Christopher Scroggins and Dr. Joey Gawrysiak, and Oxygen Esports co-owner William Collis. EDGE Consulting is a leading Esports growth and development enterprise, while Oxygen Esports serves as a diversified gaming consortium that includes data analytics firm Genji Analytics, LAN center chain Helix Esports, and renowned esports pro team OXG.

CreatorSpace: ESPORTS LAB will take place on Saturday, Oct. 16, 2021 starting at 10am EDT /7am PDT. The global event is available to students aged 6 to 18 and their parents.

ESPORTS LAB is the latest edition of CreatorSpace, BYJU'S FutureSchool's flagship online learning series. Hosted once a month, CreatorSpace events cover topics with the support of some of the top names in each respective field.

Promising to be an action-packed event, ESPORTS LAB will offer students the opportunity to learn and engage with experts on important esports competitions, the evolution of esports, trending games, and industry challenges. The two-hour event will also provide young people to connect with event speakers during a live Q&A session.

"The rising popularity of esports has unlocked an opportunity to turn a child's love of gaming into a viable learning opportunity," said BYJU'S FutureSchool CEO Trupti Mukker. "The CreatorSpace: ESPORTS LAB will explore the evolution of gaming, providing a real behind-the-scenes look at what it takes to be a pro. Our mission has always been to unlock a student's love for learning, and we are thrilled to be able to inspire and educate the next generation of competitive gamers."

BYJU'S FutureSchool's ongoing partnership with CreatorSpace provides students the opportunity to interact and communicate directly with renowned experts across various fields. These include anything from math and music to engineering and space exploration. The CreatorSpace learning series is one BYJU'S FutureSchool's most sought-after educational events, connecting thousands of children with some of the most influential and inspiring minds from around the globe. Past events have featured experts in the areas of coding, gaming, math, and satellites.

ESPORTS LAB will be hosted and moderated by TV presenter, actor and model Samir Kochhar, best known as host of the pre-match Indian Premier League. This virtual event is completely free for all students and their parents. Participants may register at creatorspace.byjusfutureschool.com.
