The global market is majorly driven by the rising preference for virtual currencies and convenient financial services among the masses. The utilization of cryptocurrency offers increased adaptability, secured confidentiality and minimal country-to-country transaction fee, which is providing an impetus to the market growth. This is supported by the rapid digitization across numerous industries and the penetration of high-speed internet connectivity on the global level. Moreover, the legalization of purchase, sale or trade of virtual currencies in numerous developed countries is creating a positive outlook for the market. Along with this, the continual integration of blockchain technology with cryptocurrencies for monitoring the changes being made in real-time during the transactions to reduce the risks of data manipulation and fraudulent or unwanted transactions is acting as a major growth-inducing factor. Some of the other factors contributing to the market growth include the increasing preference for contactless payments and the introduction of bitcoin cash and lite.
