The journey has been amazing because of the phenomenal teammates I have the honor of working with on a daily basis.”

Marc Ursick

Marc acknowledged that “the journey has been amazing because of the phenomenal teammates I have the honor of working with on a daily basis. Clearsulting would not exist without everyone on the team being bought into the mission of our company.” He also attributed the growth of Clearsulting to “each team member living our core values of grit, accountability, teamwork, growth mindset, and joy, and being culture champions at all levels within the company. It really sets us apart from others in the market.”

Clearsulting focuses on delivering best-in-class management consulting projects, creating and prioritizing an exciting and unique culture for their team, and developing meaningful, personal, and professional relationships with clients. This all supports a mission of creating a fulfilling work environment for team members, clients, and strategic alliance partners.
