This partnership comes at a time when many Americans are struggling to save for retirement due to the economic impacts of COVID-19, an unpredictable political landscape, a rising US national debt, the declining value of the US dollar, and rising inflation. “This is why we think Wholesale Direct Metals and Ric Flair are a perfect fit,” says Stewart. “He’s constantly inspiring people and encouraging them to never give up. And that’s what we tell our clients: Yeah, it’s a little crazy out there in the world right now, but it really comes down to making good choices.
