

Recent Updates to Lindale Auto Parts Website Make It Easier for Customers to Find the Part They Need

Creating a modern, intuitive database for used auto parts, Lindale Auto Parts has improved the layout, usability, and visuals on their website.

NEW RICHMOND, OH, UNITED STATES ,
October 29, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ --
Striving to expand their online presence and make their website more intuitive for customers, Lindale Auto Parts has made great investments into improving the appearance and usability of their website. Search for car parts by brand and type, images, or in groups for general repairs to larger areas of the vehicle, like the front end. Features like these come in handy for customers looking to repair one of their salvage vehicles, or simply purchase a used part and have it installed on the vehicle they already own. Additionally, they have a direct toggle to their eBay store, giving customers the option to purchase some of their parts in an auction format, and have them shipped around the country. They hope recent updates to the navigation features, inventory search feature, and aesthetic appeal of their website will help turn visits into test drives.

Lindale Auto Parts is a large salvage yard, with focus on selling used auto parts and providing auto repair services. Serving the greater Cincinnati, OH region, they have an inventory of gently used auto parts listed at prices significantly below what is available directly from the manufacturer and dealerships. Shoppers looking for discontinued brands can also benefit from their selection of parts from names like Pontiac, Saturn, Mercury, and more. Additionally, having on-site repair services available can help you source a part and repair seamlessly, at a rate well below conventional mechanic shops. Lindale Auto Parts helps repurpose used auto parts that would otherwise have been disposed of or sold for scrap. They also save owners money in the process.

About Lindale Auto Parts: Focused on distributing quality used auto parts in Cincinnati and beyond, along with comprehensive auto repair services, Lindale Auto Parts is a hidden gem for anyone seeking the perfect combination of quality and affordability. An expansive inventory, paired with a professional staff of mechanics and sales professionals can help you find the exact part and service you need quickly, and on your schedule.
