New Offerings Help Singers Auditioning and Instructors Seeking Professional Development

VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA, CANADA, November 2, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Singdaptive®, an online learning platform dedicated to multi-disciplinary singing instruction, today announced two new product offerings ahead of a busy performance season - Singdaptive for Auditions and Singdaptive for Educators.

“Singdaptive’s platform has helped me focus on the areas I want to improve on, so instruction specifically targeted at auditioning is something many of my peers would value,”
Kennedy Caughell, Broadway Performer and TV Actor

Singdaptive for Auditions provides singers a flexible solution to brush up on their performance skills prior to an important audition, whereas Singdaptive for Educators helps singing teachers or choir directors in need of professional development. Both products come in time as in-person performances and Broadway shows return in full force.

“We’re seeing an uptick in requests for specific material targeting auditions, as well as educators interested in the latest pedagogy as Broadway reopens and shows around the world continue,” said Kevin Alexander, Co-founder and CEO of Singdaptive. “There’s a particular need to help singers prepare for upcoming auditions with targeted exchanges with our coaches. This allows them the flexibility to meet and receive coaching specific to auditioning, without needing to commit to a year-long subscription.”
