

Zylpha Launches First Free Online Document Bundling System For All

New Online Tool Set To Transform Entry Level of Legal Document Bundling Technology

SOUTHAMPTON, HANTS, UNITED KINGDOM, November 2, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Leading UK legal systems innovator Zylpha (www.zylpha.com) has launched the first free online legal document bundling system. This enables legal practices of any size to create smaller court-compliant bundles completely free of charge, as many times as required. With a simple online interface, the system has been designed to be both extremely easy to use, yet readily upgradable to 'paid plans' should the bundle grow unexpectedly or become far more complex.

Zylpha's software streamlines and simplifies the arrangement, formatting and pagination of legal documents, when producing court and other document bundles. By reducing the bundling process from hours to just minutes, legal practices can save a considerable amount of time, freeing up valuable time that can then be spent helping clients. Zylpha's system also eliminates costs such as stationery, photocopying, paper file storage, and courier costs. There is also a major security dividend in using Zylpha's highly secure communications.

The new entry level new online system is now the first rung on Zylpha's extensive range of bundling options including Pay As You Go systems through to full Enterprise Solutions. The company also has connectors to most leading legal systems such as iManage, Peppermint, Visualfiles, and LEAP with more to be unveiled in 2022.

As current market leader in the supply of Pay-As-You-Go bundling, we wanted to provide a new free online entry point so that practices of all sizes could create smaller bundles without any cost."

*David Chapman, Zylpha's
Head of Marketing*

Says David Chapman Zylpha's Head of Marketing, "Covid-19 has driven the Court adoption of digital document bundles significantly. Really, everybody should now be using this technology, although some are still not. As current market leader in the supply of Pay-As-You-Go bundling systems, we wanted to provide a new free online entry point for bundling so that practices of all sizes could benefit by creating smaller bundles consistently without any cost. And, it had to be so easy to use that anyone could start straight away - with nothing to install and no training required. Our new online system achieves this and in doing so establishes a new best-practice, that is open to all and free of charge."
