

VISIONARY FOUNDER AND CEO OF MEDICAL DEVICE COMPANY PASSES UNEXPECTEDLY

Chris Jung was a founder of fluidIQ launched during the early days of pandemic

NEWBURY PARK, CA, USA, November 2, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Chris Jung, CEO of fluidIQ, a startup MedTech company launched in 2020, died unexpectedly on Tuesday. He was 42.

"We are profoundly shocked and saddened by Chris' passing," said Matt Vogelhuber, Chairman and Chief Operating Officer. "Chris was a family man first and was committed to his work and his team at fluidIQ."

Jung was a founder of fluidIQ, a company made up of a team of emergency and respiratory doctors, patient advocates and engineers in the early days of the pandemic with a vision to offer simple yet elegant emergency resuscitation and ventilation tools to a world in need.

Chris Jung, Chief Executive Officer, fluidIQ

“

It is incredibly important that Chris' genius and legacy will be carried forward. His innovation and vision will live on.”

*Matt Vogelhuber, Chairman and Chief Operating Officer,
fluidIQ*

“Chris dove into the pandemic crisis with the goal of making simple-to-use breathing support technology and providing it to emergency responders all over the world. He was a brilliant engineer and leader and was deeply admired and adored by his colleagues, his family and all who knew him,” said Vogelhuber.

“It is incredibly important that Chris' genius and legacy will be carried forward. His innovation and vision will live on.”

The company expects to make further announcements regarding the succession plans over the coming days.

About fluidIQ™

fluidIQ, a public benefit and Delaware corporation, provides simple yet elegant solutions based on proprietary fluidics technology. The company was founded by a group of doctors, engineers and patient advocates who joined together to find solutions for gaps in medical needs, including ventilators, in the midst of the coronavirus-caused world crisis. fluidIQ aims to deliver hope to a world in need with simple, easy-to-deploy technology solutions that solve the most pressing medical challenges of our time. fluidIQ's roadmap for an entire family of products is based on its proprietary platform of fluidics-operated devices dedicated to filling gaps in emergency and preparedness protocols that are user-friendly, scalable and cost-effective. fluidIQ's platform of products are based on the science of fluidics that uses air or fluids to operate things automatically without the need for electricity or batteries. Please visit www.fluidIQ.org to learn more.

Teresa Barnes
fluidIQ
+1 303-521-4080
email us here

logo

Chris Jung when receiving IFAH Award 2021

This press release can be viewed online at: <https://www.einpresswire.com/article/555359652>

EIN Presswire's priority is source transparency. We do not allow opaque clients, and our editors try to be careful about weeding out false and misleading content. As a user, if you see something we have missed, please do bring it to our attention. Your help is welcome. EIN Presswire, Everyone's Internet News Presswire™, tries to define some of the boundaries that are reasonable in today's world. Please see our Editorial Guidelines for more information.

© 1995-2021 IPD Group, Inc. All Right Reserved.