LOS ANGELES, CA, UNITED STATES, November 3, 2021

/EINPresswire.com/ -- From its star-studded cast to the award-winning storyline and rollercoaster ride of drama and suspense, “The Elevator” has been at the forefront of global headline news and now set to release via Amazon on November 18th.

Starring Eric Roberts and Eugenia Kuzmina, “The Elevator” takes audiences on an emotional

Even if you help just one person, and that one person who got help helps another, this will create a ‘CHAIN OF HELP’ and the whole world will become helpful to each other.”

Did You Know?

Based on TRUE events, Modi delivers an impactful message resonating life’s uncertainty, the power of love and never giving up hope for an answer. Ironically enough, this deadly incident of being stuck in an elevator actually happened on set to leading actor Eric Roberts, fellow cast and film crew while they were shooting the movie.

Paying it Forward

Mukesh Modi believes in giving back by paying it forward in a chain of support, globally, through film and service. Modi believes in the power of instilling positive messages through family film. Utilizing film to propel important values about family and life as well as mentoring aspiring filmmakers, Modi is committed to the greater good in all aspects of his profession.

“Even if you can help just one person, and the person who gets help will help others, this will create a ‘CHAIN OF HELP’ and the whole world will become helpful to each other,” says Modi.

Helping students to unfold their immeasurable capabilities will bring benefits for generations to come, in making dreams come true. Modi has also directed and written the documentary called “THE VISION” to inspire a sense of community to support those in need.
