Hutzpah Co CEO and former CAA Agent Natan Bogin created Safety First Collective by assembling a team of industry experts focusing on the entertainment industry. Being a Hollywood insider and knowing exactly what was needed and wanted from production companies, it wasn't long before Safety First Collective became the go-to service for Covid-19 testing for studios such as Netflix and Paramount.

As expected, movie studios and production companies are concerned about the safety of being on set as there are countless liabilities. Safety First Collective offers reliable COVID-19 testing for cast and crew members of film & TV productions to ensure that the filming process goes as smoothly as possible on sets all around the world including the United States, London, Budapest, Spain and Mexico.

"We were frustrated at how difficult it was to find reliable, professional, and high-level security testing services able to adapt to Talent and Film Production needs. I.e, very quick response, all over the country and internationally. We decided to take matters into our own hands and create this service ourselves." said CEO Bogin.

The advertisement for Safety First Collective features a background image of a film set with a building and equipment. At the top left is the SFC logo with the tagline "SAFETY FIRST COLLECTIVE" and "ALWAYS PUTTING SAFETY FIRST". Below this, the text reads "Always Putting Safety First" and "The First Entertainment Industry Covid Concierge Service". A row of five yellow stars is displayed, followed by the text "Hollywood News Network". At the bottom, there are two dark blue buttons: "Companies Looking For Testing Services" and "Certified Individuals Looking To Get Hired".
