

Urban Health Resource is Empowering Residents to Prevent Type 2 Diabetes During National Diabetes Month

An at-home lifestyle change program from the CDC helps Wayne County residents with prediabetes reduce the risk of developing type 2 diabetes by more than half.

DETROIT, MI, UNITED STATES,
November 3, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/
-- November is National Diabetes Month, a chance to raise awareness about prediabetes and preventing type

2 diabetes, a major public health concern. Prediabetes is when your blood sugar level is high but not high enough to be diagnosed as type 2 diabetes. Urban Health Resource (UHR) is helping people with prediabetes in the Detroit metro area prevent type 2 diabetes by offering at-home lifestyle change classes. The program, Change Your Lifestyle. Change Your Life. (CYL2) is part of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) National Diabetes Prevention Program and it teaches people how to incorporate healthy habits into daily life, cutting their risk for type 2 diabetes by more than half. The program also helps to reduce high blood pressure, high cholesterol, and other chronic conditions.

People feel overwhelmed when diagnosed with prediabetes, but developing type 2 diabetes is preventable. CYL2 provides a support system and tools to help people lose weight and improve their health.”

Pete Rome, Director of Workforce Development & Wellness Programming, UHR

“People can feel overwhelmed when they are diagnosed with prediabetes, but developing type 2 diabetes is preventable,” said Pete Rome, Director of Workforce Development and Wellness Programming at Urban Health Resource. “CYL2 provides participants with a support system, tools, and knowledge so they can feel empowered to make lifestyle changes that will help them lose weight

People interested in participating in the classes must call 313-664-0100 to determine eligibility and to register. The classes will meet online for one year. The classes will meet online for one year. In the first four months of the program, classes will meet 16 times. In the final eight months of the program, classes will meet 12 more times to help participants maintain healthy lifestyle changes. CYL2 is covered by many insurance companies, including Medicare for those 65 and older. A limited number of scholarships are available for those without insurance coverage for the program.

CYL2 provides participants in the program with a trained lifestyle coach who teaches them how to make positive daily changes they can stick with. You will also have the support of others making positive lifestyle changes as well. The classes cover:

- Shopping and cooking for health
- Managing chronic stress
- Understanding how emotions can trigger eating
- Practicing self-care
- Achieving weight goals during midlife
- Staying motivated
- Making good food choices away from home
- Knowing what to do when weight loss stalls

About Prediabetes

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, 1 in 3 US adults have prediabetes – and most of those with prediabetes don't know they have it. People at risk of prediabetes or type 2 diabetes:

- Are overweight
- Are 45 years of age or older
- Have a parent or sibling that has type 2 diabetes
- Are physically active fewer than 3 times per week
- Gave birth to a baby that weighed more than 9 pounds
- Had diabetes while pregnant (gestational diabetes)

Having prediabetes increases your risk for severe health conditions like:

- Heart attack
- Stroke
- Blindness
- Kidney failure
- Loss of toes, feet, or legs

With such serious consequences, preventing type 2 diabetes is a major public health concern. The good news is that prediabetes can be reversed by making healthier lifestyle decisions.

About CYL2

CYL2 is conducted in partnership with the Black Women's Health Imperative (BWHI) through a cooperative agreement with the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. Since its inception in 2012, BWHI has expanded CYL2 to several cities throughout the United States. The goal of CYL2 is to inspire participants to sustain healthy lifestyle changes.
