“On behalf of TMC and HealthTechZone, I would like to congratulate all of the Telehealth award winners,” said Rich Tehrani, CEO, TMC. “Every year I am so impressed by each winning company’s dedication to quality in solutions that benefit the overall customer experience—while driving ROI for companies that use them.”

“These awards are regarded as some of the most prestigious and respected honors in the communications and technology sector worldwide,” states HealthTechZone Telehealth Award’s official awards press release. “Winners represent prominent players in the market who consistently demonstrate the advancement of technologies. Each recipient is a verifiable leader in the marketplace.”

As the leading telehealth communication and logistics platform, Pulsara helps healthcare providers and other care team members increase efficiency and minimize miscommunication and delays in emergency care. With its flexible workflows, research has shown an average decreased treatment time of approximately 30% when using Pulsara. In a recent case study, the use of the Pulsara platform for one hospital resulted in a record low DTP time of 46 minutes—a 41% decrease within just one year.

“During the most critical moments in life, Pulsara unites distributed teams and fragmented technologies as dynamic events evolve on our scalable communications and logistics platform, improving the lives of people in need and those who serve them,” said Pulsara’s Founder and CEO, James Woodson. “To better serve patients, we must also serve and strive to improve the lives of their caregivers. This Telehealth Award from HealthTechZone.com is truly an honor. As we continue to innovate and grow, we look forward to further supporting our communities in improving healthcare communication and patient outcomes.”
