LONDON, GREATER LONDON , UK,

-- Increasing awareness of lifestyle diseases such as obesity, cardiovascular diseases, and diabetes is expected to propel the growth of the natural antioxidants market in the forecast period. As people are becoming more aware of lifestyle diseases, they are adopting healthy lifestyles and striving to improve their dietary habits, which boosts the demand for natural antioxidants. Antioxidant-rich foods may lower the risk of a variety of diseases including heart disease and certain cancers. Natural antioxidants scavenge free radicals from bodily cells, preventing or reducing oxidative damage. For instance, according to Australian researchers from the University of Queensland, in 2019, 35% of adolescents reported three or more lifestyle risk factors. Additionally, one in every three adolescents worldwide is at risk of lifestyle disorders such as diabetes and cancer, with low fruit and vegetable diet and physical inactivity being the most prevalent reason. Therefore, the increasing awareness of lifestyle diseases drives the growth of the natural antioxidants market.

Asia Pacific was the largest region in the natural antioxidants market in 2020. The regions covered in the natural antioxidants market report are Asia-Pacific, Western Europe, Eastern Europe, North America, South America, Middle East, and Africa.
