

The Carl Kruse Arts Blog Invites All to Upcoming Adele Schwab Photo Exhibit in Berlin

First time public exhibit of "Seeing the Unseen."

MIAMI, FLORIDA, USA, November 8, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Photographer Adele Schwab is having a photo exhibition in the Neukölln district of Berlin and there are two dates open to the public:

Friday, November 19, 2021 from 7pm-8:30pm

Saturday, November 20 from 5pm-6:30pm.

The exhibit is titled, "Seeing the Unseen," and is an immersive audio-visual installation that makes air "visible" both visually and politically and explores the question of how to photograph the unseen. The project explores a photographic technique to capture one essential yet invisible element: air.

This project is part of a wider series on environmentalism and was part of the "48 Stunden Neukölln Arts Festival" this past summer.

It is being shown live for the first time.

The interior of the exhibition space will be dark at first, then lit by images of trees as they evolve throughout the year, sometimes in rain, sometimes in bright sunshine. It is designed to be an immersive experience.

Location: St. Clara Church
