PALO ALTO, CALIFORNIA, UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, November 9, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Hopstack Inc and NeenOpal Inc, a Big Data Analytics and Business Intelligence consulting firm, today announced their partnership to automate and digitize the Warehouses and Distribution Centers and accelerate Supply Chain digital transformation.

This collaboration will focus on integrating Hopstack's AI-based Warehousing Automation

Software with NeenOpal's expertise in BI, Data Migration, Analytics, and Reporting to offer the best solutions for streamlining and optimizing fulfillment operations.

Neenopal's focus on helping businesses transform their Supply Chain by converting data into actionable intelligence aligns with our principles of long-term value creation.”

Vivek Singh

“We're thrilled to be collaborating with Hopstack to advance our shared focus of enabling Digital Transformation of the Supply Chain and Distribution Operations. Hopstack's Warehouse Software will enable real-time and granular data for order fulfillment operations. We look forward to helping businesses achieve greater efficiency by leveraging our AI capabilities on the cumulative mix of the fulfillment data and those from the other functions across the business value chain.” said Himanshu Bahmani, Chief Executive Officer, NeenOpal.

The partnership intends to enable retail, manufacturing, e-commerce, and 3PL businesses across North America and APAC to get a better handle on their supply chain functions in general and warehousing operations in particular.

“We share our passion for operational excellence and customer satisfaction with Neenopal.

These are transformational times when more data is generated every second than we can make sense of. Neenopal's focus on helping businesses transform their Supply Chain by converting data into actionable intelligence aligns with our principles of long-term value creation.," said Vivek Singh, Chief Operating Officer, Hopstack
