"It is an honor to join Praescient Analytics at a time where the company's capabilities, approach and focus so closely align with missions of importance across the government communities we serve. Being at the nexus of new technology and advanced analytic methodologies will allow us to deliver expert solutions tailored specifically to our customers' unique and complex needs," said Jeremy Fremin CEO, Praescient Analytics. "I am impressed by the culture and core values the Executive team have fostered, and I am excited for this opportunity to partner with such dedicated entrepreneurs to continue delivering value and results to customers.”

Fremin has more than 20 years' experience in the intelligence community including growing and leading data intelligence businesses. He started his career in the public sector supporting technical operations and modernization within the intelligence community, then transitioned to the private sector where he led the Identity and Open-Source analytics division as Vice President for Novetta (recently acquired by Accenture). He joins Praescient Analytics after a leadership role as President of Strategic Resources International Inc.

Praescient Analytics welcomes Fremin after significant success with the US Marine Corps where the firm leads the Advanced Analytics Technical Solution (AATS) contract with their robust all-source analytic solution, A2S. To date, the solution has boosted 75% analytical efficiencies across Marine Intel Units, serving over 2,500 analysts. Fremin will have an opportunity to facilitate future success with the company's recently awarded Blanket Purchase Agreement (BPA) supporting the Inspector General's Pandemic Response Accountability Committee in identifying pandemic-related fraud waste, and abuse.

Fremin's strategic focus on building organizational commitment and fostering customer success within the Intelligence and Defense communities are key to the continued growth of the company. Fremin brings a unique blend of strategy and operational excellence and is revered for his leadership style in building trust and empowering employees around clear objectives; a perfect complement to the Praescient team and its community.
