BUFFALO, NEW YORK, USA, November 10, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The National Air Cargo group has partnered with 'Food For The Poor' to ship surgical gowns to hospitals in Jamaica and Haiti. Through this initiative, National has donated 300,000 surgical gowns to 'Food For The Poor' representatives, who will be distributing the items to hospitals in the respective countries.

Ms. Georgia Goldsmith, Director of HR & Compliance, National Airlines, initiated the processes and coordinated with the US Consul General to Jamaica and the 'Food For The Poor' teams for the needed permissions and pick up of 300,000 Level 3 -disposable sterile surgical gowns in 1,750 cartons from National storage facilities.

"National has always practiced a policy of 'business with social commitment.' World. We will continue collaborating with organizations throughout our future." – said Mr. Christopher Alf, Chairman, National Air Cargo Group, Inc.

Since the beginning of the COVID-19 pandemic, National Air Cargo group has been instrumental in swiftly airlifting medical supplies including protective masks, gowns, oxygen cylinders etc. into regions including the United States of America, China, Africa, India, Pakistan, and Nepal. National teams also coordinated the safe and secure transport of COVID-19 vaccines to different inaccessible terrains. This is not the first time National has coordinated missions in Jamaica and Haiti, National had previously partnered with the Republic of Haiti to operate B747-400F cargo flights from Shanghai to Port-au-Prince in Haiti as part of COVID-19 relief missions. Critical supplies including respirators, surgical masks, N95 masks, full beds etc. were airlifted during this mission.
