EINPresswire.com/ -- According to IMARC Group latest report titled" Anti Drone Market: Global Industry Trends, Share, Size, Growth, Opportunity and Forecast 2021-2026", the market exhibited strong growth during 2015-

2020. The global anti drone market to grow at a CAGR of around 28% during 2021-2026. Anti-drone refers to a scalable system that is used to detect and intercept unwanted drones and unmanned aerial vehicles (UAVs). It is deployed to protect airports, critical infrastructure and public spaces such as stadiums, government buildings, and military facilities. Anti-drone is a customizable integrated system, including UAV detection equipment, drone neutralization equipment, and additional security solutions to offer an enhanced level of protection. The data processing and visualization software in these drones help access the threat levels and take appropriate response action.

As the novel coronavirus (COVID-19) crisis takes over the world, we are continuously tracking the changes in the markets, as well as the purchase behaviours of the consumers globally and our estimates about the latest market trends and forecasts are being done after considering the impact of this pandemic.

Market Trends:

The global anti-drone market is primarily driven by the increasing concern regarding potential security threats from unauthorized aircraft systems for both civilian and military use. The special integration software in anti-drone provides simultaneous use and smooth operation of the different counter-UAV solutions. A significant rise in terrorism and illegal activities is also fueling the market growth. Besides this, anti-drones are used to track hostile drones that contain explosives to smuggle contraband and gather intelligence or sensitive assets. Furthermore, the growing adoption of UAVs for professional and leisure use has increased the concern regarding aerial attacks among the government and public, which is expected to impact the market growth in the coming years.
