opportunities for our guests to see, photograph and, occasionally experience them close-up under our published guidelines ('Wild Horse Encounters – Dos and Don'ts').

"The local wild horses have become a drawing-attraction for visitors to our RV Park over the years. Some of our clients return annually just to see the wild horses! This in-turn has created new commerce for our RV Park and for other local businesses who serve our guests with supplies and services creating a revenue stream and jobs, all stemming from the presence of our majestic wild horses." said Tammy Madden who manages the Klamath Resort and RV Park.

Brief History of Our Local Wild Horse Herd

Our local herd of wild horses lives in the mountains 15-miles east of Hornbrook CA. This herd can be traced back to the days of the 18th century gold-miners, stagecoaches and battles between the U.S. Cavalry and the local native American tribe (Shasta Nation). The oldest local news publishers, journals and ranchers in the area cite herd size in the hundreds during that period.

The famous local cowboy George T. Wright, who lived in the present-day Soda Mountain Wilderness Area, often wrote in his personal journal about the local wild horses and his love of them, which today are considered ‘feral’ by some people. Nevertheless, the local herd, has long-established habitat across the nearby local open-range which is primarily privately-owned lands in Siskiyou County. The herd is privately managed using low-impact methods, which allow them to remain as unmolested and as natural as possible. The local herd consists of various types of horses, including; Appaloosa, Paint, Iberian and Kiger horses.

*Wild horses come and go as they please at our RV Park which is located just south of the Cascade-Siskiyou National Monument and the Soda Mountain Wilderness areas.

As such, we cannot guarantee wild horses or any wildlife will be in, or immediately around our RV Park at any given time. However, the core habitat for our local wild horses is just a few miles up Copco Road from our RV Park, and wild horses and other wildlife are often seen from Copco Road in the area of Iron Gate and Copco Lakes. As with any wildlife viewing opportunities, the RV Park has no control when any wildlife may be present in the immediate area or in the RV Park
