LONDON, GREATER LONDON, UK,
November 15, 2021 /

EINPresswire.com/ -- According to the new market research report 'Seasoning And Dressing Global Market Report

2021: COVID-19 Impact And Recovery To 2030' published by The Business Research Company, the seasoning and dressing market is expected to grow from $136.68 billion in 2020 to $141.53 billion in 2021 at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 3.5%. The growth is mainly due to the companies rearranging their operations and recovering from the COVID-19 impact, which had earlier led to restrictive containment measures involving social distancing, remote working, and the closure of commercial activities that resulted in operational challenges. The market is expected to reach $193.51 billion in 2025 at a CAGR of 8%. Overproduction of certain crops is likely to result in higher profit margins for seasoning and dressing manufacturing companies. Higher profit margins will enable food and beverage companies to increase their production and drive the market going forward.

Trends In The Global Seasoning And Dressing Market

Seasoning and dressing manufacturing companies are adopting automation and artificial intelligence (AI) technology to maximize production efficiency. Robotic systems automate, batching, conveying, processing, storage and packaging of products thus decreasing production cycle time and increasing output. AI incorporates novelty and creativity to the food by identifying a base formula for a flavor category. Automation enables seasoning processing companies to improve plant conditions, reduce contamination, minimal human interaction thus making processing safer for workers as well as consumers. Plants with fixed automation systems increase yields by at least 2-3% over workers. Kraft Heinz, Givaudan, McCormick, Ajinomoto, Kikkoman, Kerry Group are some of the companies that use food automation equipment. For instance, McCormick in collaboration with IBM research is using AI to create new palatable flavors. Kraft Heinz has invested in robotics and artificial intelligence to implement automation and to reduce manufacturing inefficiencies.
