Market Trends and Drivers:

Specialty Paper Market Report

The extensive use of specialty paper in various end use industries represents one of the key factors bolstering the market growth. For instance, it is used in the production of smart packages embedded with radio-frequency identification (RFID). These packages are extensively employed in the pharmaceutical, cosmetics, automobile, and food and beverage (F&B) industries around the world. Apart from this, the expanding application of biodegradable plastic films in the agriculture and horticulture sectors for manufacturing plant pots is impelling the market growth. Moreover, governing agencies of numerous countries are imposing bans on non-biodegradable plastics, which is anticipated to increase the sales of specialty paper worldwide.
