

Italian Bassist ALBERTO RIGONI Announces New Album “Songs for Souls” in Memory of His Father

Feat. Jordan Rudess, Mark Zonder & More!

ASHEVILLE, NC, USA, November 17, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Italian bass master and composer ALBERTO RIGONI (solo, BAD As, Natural Born Machine, Bassists Alliance Project, Vivaldi Metal Project etc.) has announced his new album, entitled “Songs for Souls”, in memory of his Father recently passed away. The album features Jordan Rudess and Mark Zonder + other musicians, to be announced.

Alberto stated: “Dear all, as you may have read I was going to give up with music but suddenly my father (Professor at the University of Padua and author of poems and tales) passed away 2 weeks ago... So I decided to make an album in his honor. It will be instrumental with some incredible special guests such as Jordan Rudess (Dream Theater), Mark Zonder (Fates Warning) and many others to be announced. So I set a pre-order/crowd funding at <http://albertorigoni.bandcamp.com>.

Release date is expected in early January. Thanks so much to who will support this album.
Sincerely yours, Alberto”
