EINPresswire.com/ -- According to the zinc oxide market report published by the Allied Market Research, the study presents impending revenue forecast of the industry for the next few years coupled with imminent market trends and opportunities. Moreover, the study also doles out different logical tables and graphs to identify the complexities of the market.

The large scale rubber industry is driving the zinc oxide market as it is needed for the vulcanization of rubber. Moreover, the substitute products for the critical process is not available due to which the market influences the growth. The slowdown of the automobile industry which is the biggest consumer for tires has affected the growth of the zinc oxide market. The price fluctuation of zinc also affects the market as the cost varies from time to time. Zinc is traded as a commodity across the world so its availability and use varies. The nanoparticles of zinc have non-toxic synthesis route and are easy to fabricate due to which it makes it very handy for various biological applications.
