EINPresswire.com/ -- Package Nexus, an innovative company, using artificial intelligence to improve lockers and parcel delivery, announces PARK AVENUE OPTOMETRY, an eye care service based in Pomona, CA, as their latest customer. As a result, the optometric practice will have access to Package Nexus' unique and patented service that uses Artificial Intelligence and smart package lockers to process and deliver essential eye care items to people who need it.

With the superior technology offered by Package Nexus, customers of PARK AVENUE OPTOMETRY will get their eyeglasses and other orders faster, on time, and with less risk of damage or mistakes. The system is not like other parcel lockers with high-risk and limited security; instead, the company has built its BOPIS smart lockers for retailers to meet modern-day consumer needs by blending smart technology with industrial-grade hardware.

Package Nexus technology is so efficient that it finishes and completes an order even when it's time out, making it one of the most innovative approaches the industry has ever witnessed. In addition, this intelligent locker system makes it easy for customers to buy online pick up in store, while the lockers' steel thickness ensures enhanced longevity and strength.

With the technology offered by Package Nexus, site managers don't have to spend time chasing customers' parcels anymore because everything is done automatically. The smart parcel lockers ensure high ROI; customers can now access their parcels quickly with less stress and risks with less troubleshooting. The Package Nexus customer service lines are always opened 24/7 to provide required support for any complaints and issues.
