

Street Car Super Nationals Attracts Its Largest Event Ever at Las Vegas Motor Speedway

From the Christmas Tree Lights of the Drag Strip to the Glittering Lights Show at the NASCAR track, family festivities are under way.

LAS VEGAS, NV, USA, November 19, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Just before the Thanksgiving holiday, two large events are running concurrently at the Las Vegas Motor Speedway – Street Car Super Nationals at the drag strip and the Glittering Lights show inside the NASCAR track. Both considered family friendly events, attendees can witness burnouts and an entire day of side-by-side high action drag racing before heading over after sunset to slowly cruise the 40-minute, 2.5-mile light show.

Alaska resident Chris Richards races his blown alcohol Mustang at the Street Car Super Nationals.

As a highly anticipated race event each year, the Street Car Super Nationals (SCSN) returns to the speedway for its 17th year. On this year's racer participation, SCSN President Mel Roth said, "This has been a record turnout, the largest in the history of SCSN." With 16 race classes featured in the event, all day racing entertainment is provided to spectators from when the gates open at 11am until the race schedule completes, typically well into the evening.

This has been a record turnout, the largest in the history of SCSN. We have participants from Manitoba and Winnipeg, Canada. We even have participants from Alaska.”

The SCSN Las Vegas event includes racers who have traveled a significant distance to participate. "Last year the borders were not open, but this year it is, so it has allowed even more racers to head south. We have participants from Manitoba and Winnipeg, Canada. We even have participants from Alaska," Roth said. One such racer is Chris Richards and his 1969

Blown Alcohol Mustang. "Mel and his team do a fantastic job hosting this race. It's well put together and I'm having the best time here!" said Richards.

Also echoing the sentiments for one of the premier west coast races of the year is Patrick Williams of Williams Motorsports. Racing his 1982 Chevy S10 Truck, he and his team travel down from Northern California to participate in multiple classes in the SCSN.

"Qualifying has gone extremely well and the weather conditions are great," said Williams. "We look to continue with some more good runs that will set us up for eliminations." SCSN runs through Sunday, Nov. 21 and welcomes spectators of all ages including kids. "You can come out to our event all day and head right over to the light show. What can be better than that?" concludes Roth. For more information, visit Street Car Super Nationals Event.

From one family event to another, attendees of SCSN can cross Speedway Boulevard to find another grand display of entertainment in the Glittering Lights' drive through tour. Featuring over 600 displays that amount to over five million LED lights, the event also includes The Living Nativity scene on select dates. A longstanding annual event, this is the 21st year of the Glittering Lights event and it has become an important staple in the Las Vegas community as it supports charities including Speedway Children's Charities and Goodwill of Southern Nevada. Each night, the event is open for entry at 5:30pm and admission is per vehicle. Accompanying music is provided through a designated radio station as attendees have options for concessions that include hot cocoa, hot apple side, buttered and kettle corn.
