EINPresswire.com/ -- The global Process Meat Packaging Market growth

is substantially hampered by several unfavorable factors. The World Health Organization (WHO) classified red and processed meats as group 1 carcinogens, implying that eating these meat products might lead to cancer. Dietary cholesterol in red and processed meat is high, which has been linked to improper glucose metabolism in body. Furthermore, synthetic preservatives have been shown to have a harmful impact on the human body. Because customers are gravitating toward plant-based meat products, these perceived negative health impacts will limit market expansion.
