Moreover the company's CEO, Lalit Sharma stated that he was being approached by multiple companies through common friends to HIRE DEVELOPERS under corporate tie-ups. He had been rejecting those offers because neither the offers were financially sustainable nor the concept of projects was good. Since post-pandemic, every industry is revamping its digital infrastructure so we are getting good project offers from our sales channels and fellow peers.

That's why we added corporate tie-ups to hire developers in our business model that consists of a fixed price, Time and Material, pay per hour, pay per sprint and BOT models.

Java development company offering agile software development, web app development, business intelligence tools dashboard development and integration, blockchain development for
