COVID-19 Scenario Analysis:

1. To subdue the spread of COVID-19, respective governments have shutdown day-to-day business operations by implementing a full-scale lockdown. Labour shortages and delays in project completion are a few factors hindering the global commercial banking industry, resulting in a decline in production.
2. The global commercial banking market forecast has been significantly impacted by the outbreak. New projects throughout the world have stalled, which have significant demand for commercial banking market.
3. The global factories have struggled to manufacture and assemble new devices as workers have stayed in their homes while the already available devices in various warehouses cannot be transported due to current rules & regulations, which disrupted the global supply chains.
4. The impact of COVID-19 on commercial banking market is temporary as just the production and supply chain is stalled. Once the situation improves, production, supply chains, and demand for these products are gradually going to increase. This is expected to provide opportunities for companies operating in the market to think about ways of increasing production, research about technologies, and improve current products.
