Cash flow solutions help healthcare organizations to make comprehensive sales forecasts by measuring sales revenue regenerated from sales of potential drugs and new developments for marking the progress within each individual program. Such solutions also help these organizations track the research & development data, such as new therapy, upcoming releases, and clinical trial updates. Continued investment in personalized medicines and strategic alliances with clinical partners are essential since they enable organizations to improve test procedures and medicine effectiveness.

Key Highlights From the Report

In December 2020, Intuit acquired Credit Karma, Inc., which is a consumer technology platform with over 110 Million users in the U.S., Canada, and U.K. The acquisition will allow the company to create a new finance platform to help consumers to take control of their financial lives and make better decision with finances, especially during times such as that created by the COVID-19 pandemic.

In September 2019, Sage, which is a market leader in cloud-based management solutions, acquired AutoEntry, which is a leading provider of data entry automation for bookkeepers, accountants, and businesses. The acquisition aims to accelerate Sage's vision to become a major SaaS company, and follows a successful two-year partnership.

North America accounted for highest revenue share in 2020 and is expected to maintain its leading position during the forecast period. Steady revenue growth can be attributed to increasing demand for liquidity management, emerging technologies such as AI, ML, BI, and data analytics, and presence of major companies in this region.
