

Cruelty-Free Holiday Shopping Trend Boosts Calls to Ban Fur Farms

As the world's top designers and America's biggest department stores ditch fur, protesters converge in cities around the world to #MakeFurFarmsHistory.

HOLLYWOOD, CA, UNITED STATES,
November 28, 2021 /
EINPresswire.com/ -- ANTI-FUR
PROTESTS AND HOLIDAY SHOPPING
CONVERGE

On Thanksgiving weekend 2021, hundreds marched to demand governments, specifically the Canadian government, BAN fur farms by enacting a federal law that would make fur farms illegal.

When COVID broke out on Denmark's fur farms, the government ordered more than 15 million mink slaughtered and tossed into mass graves. The animals' bodies then bubbled up from the shallow graves and were described in news reports as "zombie mink." It was more gruesome than the most violent horror film and stripped fur of any last vestige of glamour. It was a tipping point and major fashion labels and stores that had been resistant to relinquish fur began capitulating in droves. However, mink farms are still in operation around the world, posing a health threat and perpetuating a practice that belongs in the garbage can of history.

NEW FILM HAS CONSUMERS DITCHING THEIR FUR TRIM

Now, Real Fur, an investigative documentary, uncovers the true cost of fur in fashion. The film chronicles the transformation of director Taimoor Choudhry from an ignorant consumer who wore a fur-trimmed jacket to a passionate animal rights leader determined to end the use of real fur in fashion forever! Learn more at RealFurFilm.com. UnChainedTV's Edita Birnkrant reports from New York and UnChainedTV's Cesar Asebedo brings us the action in Beverly Hills! The network has contributors around the world.
