global nebulizers market is expected to grow with moderate CAGR during forecast period. Prevalence of respiratory diseases coupled with a growing aged population fuel the growth of the global nebulizers market. The market is also driven by the use of portable nebulizers. Since nebulization is a spraying technique, dispersion and wastage of the drug during delivery to the respiratory tract is the major restraint for the growth of this market. The availability of nebulizer substitutes also inhibits further growth. Emerging economies such as Asia-Pacific creates the promising opportunity for the growth of this market.
